According to President Williams, they are glad it is no worse, and will be the pleased to hear from you it has matter as soon as may be convenient. Very respectfully. CHARLES D. F. BURNS. This response came on Oct. 31: are glad it is no worse, and will be they are meant for satisfied if nothing worse happens to the bank in the next twenty years. Tait's appropriations of the bank's money were begun about a year ago. They ranged in amount from $100 to $1,000, aggregate $15,715, and were covered hearts to Christmas up by putting worthless checks in his His accounts passed muster last May when National Bank Examiner William H. Kimbail went over them, but at the examination last Tuesday, which the bank has made about this time of year as a matter of extra precaution, Mr. Kimbail found a check for $13,250 on the Twelfth Ward Bank, made out by C. H. Babcock, who is said to be Tait's brother-in-law.

H. Babcock, who is said to be Tait's brother-in-law.

Mr. Kimbail remembered that last May be had found a similar check for $12,325 among the "checks cashed late." that is, received the night before cashed, but mot accounted for. He said nothing, but made a recount the next morning, and was surprised to find the $13,250 check missing.

made a recount the next morning and was surprised to find the $13,250 check missing.

Tait became nervous on being questioned, and Kimball grew suspicious. He asked Tait to make out a new proof sheet, which he was unable to do, and told cashier William J. Quinlan, jr., so. At his request, Mr. Quinlan accompanied Tait to President George G. William's home, where the paying teller broke down and confessed his wrong-doing.

He declared that he had never profited one cent by the peculations, but had loaned the proceeds to friends whom he relied upon to repay him, in the event of which he would have made good the shortage. He had memoranda of these loans to the amount of $12,000. The remainder, $2,715, Tait insisted, must have been due to his mistakes in counting out cash.

More grieved than sugry, President Williams told Tait to go to his home in Mount Kisco, where he has since remained very Ill with nervous prostration.

Dear Sir: A message came to me yesterday from your office after two transmissions by telegraph and two by telechone.

As understood when received it invited me to revelw a report that had been made to your Beard about the planning of the Hartem River Trotting Course, and I replied accordingly, Another, and, I assume, more authentic version of the message has since been obtained; my business here in the mountains is so liable to be hindered by storms at this season that I may be prevented from coming to New York yet for a fortingly.

shortage. He had memoranda of these to cans to the amount of $13,000. The remainder, $3,715, Tait insisted, must have been due to his mistakes in counting out cash.

More grieved than sigry, President Williams told Tait to go to his home in Mount Kisco, where he has since remained very ill with nervous prostration.

President Williams said to "Evening World" reporter this morning:

"It's a very simple thing, really. The young man (Tait is nearly fifty) in whom we reposed the utmost confidence for years, has betrayed our trust, is short in his cash nearly $15,000 and has been removed from his position.

"We don't believe he is a cobber, although he had no right to loan the bank's money, and we don't intend to prosecute him. He was simply weak, that is all, and we feel very sorry for his family, which is eminently respectable.

He was under a bond of $5,000, which is perfectly good. Whether we shall sue to recover the remainder of the shortage to recover the remainder of the shortage are mains for the officers to determine inter. We are only too glad that he didn't take $100,000 and hope that in the he did. This is the first thing of the high the high that has occurred to the bank in forty years.

Mr. Williams was surprised to learn that Tait had advertised his Mount Kisco homestead for sale last week for $15,000, almost the amount of his defaication.

"The property sold once for $20,000," he said. "We could recover upon that, I suppose, but it is morting for $7,000."
